THE ENGLISH POLICE

HOW SCOTLAND YARD OFFICIALS TRACE MISSING PEOPLE.

Methods of London's Detective Force For Locating the Lost Ones, and Every Detail of How the Mysteries Are Unraveled.

Away along the embankment, close to the houses of parliament, is a big, businesslike red brick building, the headquarters of those whose business it is to solve mysteries.

Scotland Yard is the home of thrilling occupations and has many tasks undreamed of by those who regard it merely as the directing office of the army of blue coated London constables, and among those tasks is that of probing the mystery of lost persons—a mystery touched often by romance, often by tragedy and occasionally surrounded by a black obscurity into which no human ingenuity can pierce. It is part of the work of Scotland Yard to endeavor to extract from the bewildering human continent of London those individuals who have suddenly walked off the track of human knowledge, who in ordinary speech with friends and acquaintances in one hour have in the next, for no reason and without a word, disappeared.

Some of these mysteries never have been solved and never will be solved. But they are astonishingly few compared to those which Scotland Yard unravels every week. Only one case here and there is heard of, because the work is in the ordinary routine of the yard and the force has no eye for romance, rigidly restricting itself to practical thoughts and practical work.

Stretched over twenty square mnes of London, with its population of a nation, are the nervous tentacles of Scotland Yard, ever alert for the work, responding in a moment to an impulse from that center of intelligence—the red brick, businesslike building on the embankment. Frequently throughout day and night the agents of Scotland Yard are scouring London in the search for missing persons. The great organization works like a machine.

To give an idea of the work it will be best to take an instance of what happens in an individual case.

A prosperous middle aged civil servant living at Clapham is amazed and alarmed to find that his son, a bank clerk, aged twenty-four, does not return home one night after business. He is a well behaved young fellow and has never before stayed away all night. In the morning his father hurries to the branch of the bank in Kensington where his son is employed and finds that he left at about half past 5 on the night before in quite his usual manner, giving no indication that he was not going straight home. From the time he left the bank door he has not been seen. His accounts are in perfect order; he was a young man on the way to promotion.

The bewildered father takes a cab to the nearest police station and relates his story to the inspector in charge. "Oh, I dare say he'll be found in a couple of days," says the cheery inspector. "We'll get on to it at once. What is his description?"

Thereupon the father gives a description of his son, running, perhaps, something like this: Height, five feet eight inches; fair hair, slight fair mustache, gray eyes, slim build, wearing silk hat, morning coat, dark striped trousers and glace kid lace boots. The inspector enters this in a book, together with some details as to the disappearance. He hands the book to a policeman clerk and turns to give another word of reassurance to the father. Within a minute the latter hears the "tick, tick, tick" of a telegraph instrument in the hands of the policeman clerk. The description he has given is being telegraphed to every police station in the London area and is also being sent to Scotland Yard. Thus within a few minutes the police depots from one end of the metropolis to the other are on the qui vive for the slim, fair haired young man."

But the process has only just begun. As soon as the father has left the police station the inspector calls out from another room two "special inquiry officers," who are expert searchers for missing persons and who have a wonderful knowledge of their district, with its doubtful resorts, low class clubs, houses of shady character places where lost people the details, and they first no accident has befallen the young man.

By the time they are in the street headquarters at Scotland Yard has the matter in hand. At intervals throughout the day the private printing presses at the Yard produce a printed sheet with the latest confidential information on police matters, and this sheet is distributed hot from the press to every police station in London, and as there are three or four issues every day only an hour or two elapses between each edition. As a result by midday the description of the young man has been printed and is being distributed broadcast to the police. Every expedient is used to get it round quickly, and in the case of some of the isolated stations mounted men convey it from place to place.

As soon as the Gazette is received at a station the officer in charge sees the description and takes action. Every hour or two batches of constables are paraded before him previous to going out on duty in the streets. To each of these batches he reads aloud the description of the missing man, and every constable goes out to his work with a picture of the fair haired, slim young man in his mind. Within twenty-four hours every member of the force has heard of that fair haired young man and is looking out for him.

But perhaps there has entered the mind of Scotland Yard the idea that crime lies at the root of the mystery, that the young man has been murdered. If that thought comes to Scotland Yard, another part of the great machine is set to work. The criminal investigation department is invited to lend its aid, and a detective inspector, with a little band of clever subordinates, sets to work independently of all that is being done in other directions. The young man's employers, his relatives, his friends, his acquaintances—every person he has known to speak to during the past week is exhaustively questioned, and people against whom there may be some kind of shadowy suspicion are unobtrusively watched without cessation by careless young racing men, omnibus conductors or city clerks, all of whom are really Scotland Yard detectives. And, while the newspapers know nothing, the police force of London is humming with the search for that fair haired young man.

Perhaps after two days the Scotland Yard squadron gets a clew and, uniting with the local special inquiry officers, tracks the fair haired young man to a shady lodging house in North Kensington, where, half starved, dazed with the effects of drugs, he has been locked in a cellar for forty-eight hours. He has been by some plausible means lured to the house in question and plied with drink by well dressed scoundrels, who believed he carried keys belonging to the bank. Finding he had not what they required, they had temporarily locked him up, with what ultimate object can only be guessed.

There are hundreds of simpler cases which are solved in a matter of hours. It will be safe to say that the chances are ten to one in favor of Scotland Yard finding the whereabouts of a missing person within a week.—Frank Dilnot in London Mail.

Dryden's Ruse.

The story is told that Dryden, finishing his translation of "Virgil," sent it to Jacob Tonson for publication for a sum specified upon the manuscript. Tonson was desirous of obtaining the book, but determined to take advantage of Dryden's need of money. He therefore informed the poet that he could not pay the sum Dryden asked. In reply Dryden sent the following lines in description of the publisher:

With leering look, bull faced and freckled fair,
With two left legs, with Judas colored hair
And frowzy pores that taint the ambient air.

When this was delivered to Tonson he asked if Dryden had said anything more. "Yes," replied the bearer, "he said to tell the dog that he who wrote these lines could write more like them." Tonson sent the money at once.

Mastered the Q.

Hundreds of people have cured themselves of impediments in speech. One of last year's mayors as a young man used to find it almost impossible to pronounce words beginning with a "q." Every day for months he used to walk across St. James' park practicing this sentence aloud, "A quantity of quick silver quietly quartered in a quag mire," until he conquered the impediment. [illegible] he is one of the most [illegible] London

PECULIARITIES OF WATER.

Its Expansion, Contraction and Slow Change of Temperature.

Water is such a common substance that we usually think but little about it. In a pure state it consists of two gases, oxygen and hydrogen, chemically combined. The volume of the hydrogen is twice that of the oxygen, but the oxygen even then is eight times as heavy as the hydrogen. Practically we never obtain pure water. As it falls from the clouds it washes the impurities from the air, and as it sinks into the earth it dissolves many substances. Even distilled water is rarely pure and cannot be kept any length of time.

It is a common observation that water will freeze into ice and that the ice will float on the surface of the water with about one-tenth of its volume above the surface. This is caused by the expansion of the water, which begins a few degrees above the freezing point and increases rapidly as the water solidifies. If water behaved as most substances which contract and hence occupy less space when they are in a solid condition than they occupy as a liquid, our ponds, rivers and lakes would soon disappear. The first layer of ice that formed would break away from the shore by its own weight and sink to the bottom. This layer would be followed by others as the water froze until the entire body of water became a body of ice.

Since our heat comes from the sun and water does not readily conduct heat downward, it is easy to imagine what the result would be. During the hot summer days a layer of ice might melt, but the ice beneath would not be warmed and would keep the temperature of the melted ice so low that a slight change of temperature would cause it to freeze again, thus giving us solid bodies of water that would never thaw. Drainage, navigation, swimming, fishing and all other water sports would be absolutely impossible.

Another peculiarity about water is that it requires more heat to raise the temperature of a given weight of water one degree than it does for any other known substance. The same amount of heat applied to equal weights of water and copper will raise the temperature of the copper about eleven times as much as it will in the case of the water. While this means that it takes more heat to warm the water we use, it is otherwise to our advantage. If water changed its temperature as readily as copper, iron or mercury it would be impossible to go out of doors after a rain if the sun were shining, since we would be suffocated by the steam. Fires could not be extinguished by water, since the water would in many cases be turned into steam before it could reach the fire and thus escape. Under present conditions it would require a large amount of heat to raise the temperature of water from the freezing point to the boiling point and nearly 5.4 times as much more to change the water into steam. In this way the water is kept in a liquid condition for a considerable time even under unfavorable conditions.—New York Press.

Had the Rector Running Mad.

A good many years ago, when metropolitan dailies were not run so well as they are now, ridiculous typographical mistakes happened frequently. One of the papers had two separate articles, one on a sermon and the other on a mad dog, which were of course to go under different headings. In some way both were set up together. In the morning the editor was horrified to see the following article:

"The Rev. James Thompson, rector of St. Andrew's church, preached to a large concourse of people Sunday. This was his last sermon. In a few weeks he will bid farewell to his congregation, as his physician has advised him to cross the Atlantic. He exhorted his brethren and sisters and after offering a devout prayer (here is where the articles ran together) took a whim to cut up some frantic freaks. He ran up Timothy street to Johnson and down Benent street to College. At this stage of the proceedings a couple of boys seized him, tied a tin kettle to his tail, and he again started. A great crowd collected, and after some trouble he was shot by a policeman."

Customer—Have you anything that is good for falling hair? Facetious Clerk—How would a wastebasket do?

Be sure you can obey good laws before you alter bad ones.—Ruskin.

POWER OF CHARTRES.

No Other Church Perhaps So Entirely a House of Prayer.

I know no other church so entirely a house of prayer as the Chartres cathedral. Everybody who goes to it will tell you the same thing. "Chartres has still the gift of a unique power of impressing," Pater says, stirred by the aesthetic value of religion in such a setting. "Nowhere does one pray so well as at Chartres," Huysmans says, feeling its power more intimately. It is not easy to explain just why this should be, any more than why out of an endless gallery of Madonnas, a rare canvas by Piero della Francesca or Bellini will catch the eye and haunt the memory. Piety would have been as poor an equipment for the builder of cathedrals as for the painter of Madonnas. Nor is the fact that the architecture of Chartres belongs to the period of Gothic masterpieces a sufficient explanation. Paris and Bourges and Laon and Amiens show the same architectural perfection, they belong to the same period, but from none of them do you get the same impression of mysterious majesty, the same urgent call to prayer.

Other cathedrals are larger. Some have the same five aisles and as spacious an apse encircled by chapels. One at least, Le Mans, repeats the imposing arrangement of windows in the choir, and yet none can so awe you as Chartres does by the solemnity, the sublimity, of size. None can so overpower you by the height of nave and choir, by the endless vistas of aisles beyond aisles, chapels beyond chapels, columns beyond columns, by the dignity of an austere exterior, with spires pointing to heaven and buttresses that not even the wheel-like supports to their bold flight over the aisles can make less severe, less vigorous in mass. And the cathedral grows in solemnity and immensity the more you see it. Chance, it is true, has been kinder to Chartres than to most French cathedrals in sparing much of the detail without which the most perfect church seems bare and empty and cold.—Elizabeth Robbins Pennell in Century.

The Joy of the Everglades.

Our experience was that one meets delay in the Everglades, but not danger. The water is pure and sweet and food plentiful enough. Limpkins taste like young turkeys. All members of the heron family are likely to be found in the glades, and most other birds are fair food. Snails, which abound, are delicacies when called periwinkles. You would pay a dollar a portion in New York for the frogs that are yours for the catching in the glades. There are plenty of turtle, which possess all the good qualities, except cost, of the green turtle or the terrapin. A few fruits can be had for dessert—cocoa plums, custard apples and pawpaws—while the leaves of the sweet bay make a fragrant beverage. Crossing the Everglades of Florida in a canoe is not an adventure; it is a picnic.—A. W. Dimock in Harper's.

When the Sea Was Fresh Water.

The ocean was once merely brackish and not salt, as it is now. This was when the earth was in its first youth and before there was any land showing at all or any animal life in the water. At this time the water was gradually cooling from its original state of steam, and the salts were slowly undergoing the change from gases into solids. Then came the appearance of land and later on rivers, which gradually washed down more and more salts, while at the bottom of the ocean itself chemical action was constantly adding more brine to the waters. At present it is estimated there are in the world's oceans 7,000,000 cubic miles of salt, and the most astonishing thing about it is that if all the salt could be taken out in a moment the level of the water would not drop one single inch.

A Fearful Duel.

The most terrible duel fought at any time in Paris was the one between Colonel [illegible] Bonapartist officer, and M. de [illegible]ne Gardes du Corps, a mere youth, but of herculean strength. The two men, lashed together so as to leave their right arms free, were armed with short knives, placed in a hackney coach and driven at a tearing gallop around the Place de la Concorde. They were taken out of the coach dead. The colonel had eighteen stabs, the youth only four, but one of these had pierced his heart.

The laws of conscience which we pretend are derived from nature proceed from nature.—Montaigne.

OUR SOCIETY CENSOR

ORIGIN OF THE INCORPOREAL BUT ALERT MRS. GRUNDY.

This Paul Pryish and Gossipy Myth Is an Invisible Character In Thomas Morton's Famous Old English Comedy, "Speed the Plow."

Who does not know Mrs. Grundy? Who does not at some time make concessions to her? And yet who has ever recorded seeing her? Prim, grim and uncompromising, the incorporeal dame sits as censor on the manners and the morals of the time. "What will Mrs. Grundy say?" is a phrase that suggests tremendous power and authority, but no one has ever reported just what she did say. Referred to on all social questions, the inspiration of the conventional, sung by poet and considered by writer, no one has yet been found bold enough to attempt her concrete description. Even the man who, conscious of her existence, first brought her to public attention did not introduce her as a tangible figure. He was content with a theoretical personality, a presence. And it is as well. If Mrs. Grundy could speak, she would die as an influence. Her strength is that of silent censure.

Mrs. Grundy, the name, was the invention of Thomas Morton, an English playwright born nearly a century and a half ago. It appears in his pastoral comedy, "Speed the Plow," which ran through many successful London seasons and was later presented in this country. The play concerns the adventures of a handsome youth of unknown parentage. Henry, the hero, has been adopted by Farmer and Dame Ashfield, two characters whose rustic conversations supply much of the humor of the piece. Mrs. Grundy is present in spirit only. She is supposedly the wife of a neighboring farmer, and of her opinion in all matters Dame Ashfield stands in mortal awe, greatly to the annoyance of her husband.

In the first few lines of the comedy Dame Ashfield has occasion to mention her formidable friend with this result:

Ash—Be quiet, wool ye? Always ding, dinging Dame Grundy in my ears—What will Mrs. Grundy zay? What will Mrs. Grundy think? Canst thee be quiet, let her aloane and behave thyzel pratty?

Dame—Certainly I can. I'll tell thee, Tummas, what she said at church last Sunday.

Ash—Canst thee tell what parson zaid?

The couple have a handsome daughter, Susan, whose love story forms a part of the plot. At one stage of the development the following dialogue takes place:

Ash—I tell ye, I zee'd un gi' Susan a letter, and I don't like it a bit.

Dame—Nor I. If shame should come to the poor child—I say, Tummas, what would Mrs. Grundy say, then?

Ash—Dom Mrs. Grundy! What would my poor woald heart zay?

At another place Henry is hard pressed for money, and his adopted parents plan to sell their goods to obtain it for him. The farmer asks his dame how many silk gowns she can dispose of.

Dame—Three, Tummas, and sell them all; and I'll go to church in a stuff one and let Mrs. Grundy turn up her nose as much as she likes.

In the final act, when everything is comfortably settled, the simple pair fall to preparing for the festivities.

Dame—And then, Tummas, think of the wedding.

Ash (reflecting)—I declare I shall be just the zame as ever. Maybe I shall buy a smartish bridle or a zilver backy stopper or the likes o' that.

Dame (apart)—And then, when we come out of church, Mrs. Grundy will be standing about there—

Ash (apart)—I shall shake hands with all my friends.

Dame (apart)—Then I look at her in this manner.

Ash (apart)—How dost do, Peter? Ah, Dick, glad to zee thee wi' all me zoul (bows toward center of the stage).

Dame (apart)—Then, with a kind of half courtesy, I shall— (She advances to the center also, and their heads meet.)

Ash—What an oald fool thee bees, dame! Come along and behave pratty, do'ee.

From this small beginning grew the tradition of Mrs. Grundy. It has been seized upon by succeeding writers and succeeding generations, who have felt the existence of the austere critic as keenly, as did ever Dame Ashfield. Thanks are due the originator for a vital term that has come to express a social force more satisfactorily than reams of explanation.—New York Ho[illegible]

BOARDMAN-JOLLY NUPTIALS.

Two Popular Young People Were United in This City Wednesday.

One of the most impressive weddings ever held in Gainesville was that of Miss Cora Jolly, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Jolly, which occurred at the home of the parents of the bride, Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, when Miss Jolly was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Thos. F. Boardman of Hague. Rev. Francis H. Craighill of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, in his usual impressive manner, officiated.

For this occasion the home was decorated in bamboo vines and carnations—a very simple, but beautiful decoration. There were other decorations of beauty, and which were admired by the few that were present.

The bride was attired in white French mull, elaborately trimmed in lace, with bouquets of carnations and asparagus ferns. The bride was attended by Miss Zetrouer of Birmingham, Ala., who wore a gown of French mull with lace trimmings, and carried a bouquet of green satin ribbons. Miss Ida Burkhim played the wedding march, Mendelssohn's.

After the ceremony the guests were ushered into the second room, where delicious refreshments of punch, etc., were served by Mrs. Evans Haile, Miss Martin and the Misses Burkhim. The course was salads and cake, which was served by Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Frank Jolly of Jacksonville, assisted by others, including Miss Alvarez of Starke and Miss Words of Daytona.

The happy pair left in the evening for Hague, where Mr. Boardman is engaged with the Chase Company in the phosphate business.

Mr. and Mrs. Boardman will make their home at Hague. They have many friends here who will wish them much happiness in their married life.

DaCosta-Streeper.

At the conclusion of the prayer-meeting at the Methodist church Wednesday evening Aaron W. DaCosta and Miss Mary Streeper were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Nixon.

The marriage was quite a surprise to the friends of the contracting parties, although it was generally conceded that they were to be married at an early date.

Mr. DaCosta is one of Gainesville's most widely known and popular young men, while the bride is a lovely young lady, who has many friends. Congratulations of all are extended.

Marriage at Fort White.

J. J. Sanders of St. Petersburg and Miss Laura Getzen of Fort White were married Sunday at the home of bride's parents, Captain and Mrs. T. W. Getzen, Fort White, Rev. N. B. Plummer, of Anthony, officiating. The happy pair left immediately after the ceremony and spent Monday here with Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bunch. They proceeded to their home in St. Petersburg Tuesday.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

CULPEPPERS GONE.

They Will Begin Series of Meetings in Valdosta, Ga., Sunday.

After two weeks' successful work here, in which about 150 accessions were made to the various churches of the city, Rev. J. B. Culpepper and wife and Rev. Burke Culpepper and family left Wednesday for Valdosta, Ga., where they expect to begin a series of meetings Sunday.

There were quite a number of friends congregated at the station of the Gainesville and Gulf railroad to bid the Culpeppers good-bye and wish them Godspeed, notwithstanding the early hour. It was necessary for many of these well wishers to rise before 5 o'clock in order to bid them a last farewell for the present, but they were there, and they ought to be commended for it.

The endearment between the Culpeppers and the people of Gainesville has been mutual. Both are great men and great preachers, as the result of their stay here will show. The good people of Gainesville hope to be favored by their presence again at no very distant day.

The Birthday Party.

The "birthday party" of the Helping Hands Society of the First Presbyterian Church, which was held at the elegant home of Mrs. J. D. Stringfellow Wednesday afternoon, was a grand success, financially and otherwise, and those who are working for the church improvement and repairs in this direction have reason to be proud of the financial results.

It was a party in which all friends were invited, and a penny was required to be returned in a bag for each year that the invited guest was old. As a matter of course this made no particular difference as to their respective ages, as the scheme was the novel part of the program; but there was quite a neat sum realized, which will be used for the repair of the church in the matter of a new roof.

Delicious refreshments of salads, etc., were served during the afternoon.

Funeral of Mr. Giddings.

The funeral of M. Giddings, the sad death of whom occurred at his home in North Gainesville Tuesday, was held Wednesday afternoon from the Christian Adventist Church, and a large number of friends assembled to pay their last sad respects to the deceased, among whom were representative bodies of the G. A. R. and Blue and Gray.

The interment was in Evergreen cemetery, and many friends of the deceased followed the remains to their last resting-place.

HOME FOR ORPHANS.

Mrs. Seaton Took Several Dependent Children to Home Society.

Mrs. Seaton of Jacksonville, superintendent of the Children's Home Society, a society organized for the care and protection of orphan and helpless children, has been in this section for the past few days in the interest of her work, with the result that she has taken from North Gainesville four children, all of whom will be properly cared for until they can be placed in moral, Christian homes.

Too much praise cannot be given this work, and the active interest Mrs. Seaton is taking in saving the helpless children and providing for their comfort. Many children which might have proved a waif or perhaps a criminal by neglect, have been taken by this society and provided with good homes, where they may grow into manhood and womanhood a credit to themselves and the world.

Death of An Infant.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F Johnson's friends sympathize deeply with them in the loss of their infant son, woo died early Wednesday morning, after an illness of several weeks. The funeral was held in the afternoon, Rev. S. B. Rogers, of the First Baptist Church, officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have been unfortunate recently. On Tuesday little Sarah, their eight-year-old daughter, was severely burned from the result of playing with matches, and will be confined to her bed for some time. The death of their darling little boy at this time is particularly sad, and they have the sympathy of the community.

If you are interested in Gainesville and Alachua county send a copy of the Industrial Edition of The Sun to a friend in the North. Price ten cents.

The regular weekly prayer-meeting will be held at the First Baptist Church tonight, and the Sunday school teachers' meeting tomorrow evening. Both meetings will be held at 7 o'clock.

A large number of witnesses from Bradford county are in attendance, and the case is being heard in the court room. T. W. Fielding of Starke is attorney for the plaintiff and J. M. Rivers represents the defendant.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB.

Interesting Meeting Held at Home of Mrs. F. D. Warner Monday.

The Twentieth Century Club met in regular session on Monday at 3 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Frank Warner.

After the minutes of the last meeting had been read and approved, a short time was devoted to transacting the business which demanded the club's attention. This was followed by a roll-call, in which the members answered to their names by reading quotations containing "Household Hints," or ideas about "Household Economics." Miss Aplin of Wisconsin then sang a solo, her selection being "Because." A paper, "Woman at Home," was read by Mrs. Medlin. In the absence of Mrs. Broome, her essay on "Reciprocity" was read by Mrs. Taylor. The club was entertained by a very fine rendering of McDowell's Praeludium, by Mrs. Atkinson. A magazine article on the vexing question, "How to Keep a Maid," was then read by Mrs. Grieves. After this Miss Aplin again delighted all present by another vocal solo. Then came the "Table Talk," in which nearly everyone present gave some of her ideas as to how a household should be managed.

The club then adjourned. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Chapin, after the Bible Conference has closed. The date will be announced later in the columns of The Sun.

IBSEN'S PARADOX.

And the Intimate Relation of Science to Society.

Ibsen, my great compatriot, has in one of his works formulated the paradox that the man is strongest who stands most alone. There is certainly some truth in this—nay, there is much truth in it so far as science is concerned. The man who in the search for truth goes his way independently of other men and of other considerations is certainly the man who is apt to find the greatest and most valuable truth. On the other hand, it is also true that science more than most other things in life depends on co-operation, on the help of one's fellow beings, and this becomes more and more true every day. Many people are apt to forget what science actually is and what they owe to science, for it is through science that modern society actually exists, and the development of society as it is today would be impossible if science were eliminated. Humanity is growing; but, if science and the means created by science are not growing, humanity will have to look forward to a very miserable future. Therefore the nation that wishes to be cared for must support science and those who carry on scientific work. Science will live her own life and has done so ever since the days when Prometheus made his fatal expedition to the gods and stole the fire which is more or less burning in every one of us and cannot be extinguished. There is something sublime in this everlasting fire of science. Generation after generation disappears. The individual is nothing, but always "watchful in the tower man shall remain in sleepless contemplation."—Dr. Nansen.

FOR STOMACH SUFFERERS.

Don't Use Any Remedy That Keeps Its Formula a Secret.

People who are troubled with stomach weakness cannot afford to use any remedy unless they know what it contains.

Mi-o-na is not a mere digestive giving only temporary relief, but a specific for all disorders of the digestive organs, and so effects a permanent cure for stomach troubles.

Your physician will tell you that nothing is better than a combination of chemically pure bismuth subgalate to allay any inflammation of the stomach and bowels; cerium oxalate, to strengthen the stomach nerves; sodium bi-carbonate, which neutralizes the poisonous acids that are present in stomach troubles, and nux vomica, which will restore vigor to the digestive organs and tone the whole nervous system.

This combination is found only in Mi-o-na stomach tablets, and it so rarely fails to strengthen the digestive system and cure all forms of stomach disorders that J. W. McCollum & Co. sell the remedy under a guarantee to refund the money unless it cures.

If you suffer from indigestion, distress after eating, specks before the eyes, headaches, pains in the back and side, emaciation, bloating, nervousness, sleeplessness, or any of the other symptoms of stomach troubles, begin the use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets at once. J. W. McCollum & Co. sell them in 50c boxes with a guarantee to refund money unless they cure.

S.S.S. PURELY VEGETABLE

Not only is a medicine valuable for its ability to cure disease, but the way in which it affects the system is a very important factor. When the system is infected with the germs of disease as in Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., every particle of its recuperative strength is needed to assist in eliminating the poisons and impurities which are causing the trouble. It should not be dosed and treated with strong mineral mixtures and concoctions that further add to the burden, by disagreeably affecting the bowels, producing indigestion, or eating out the delicate linings and membranes of the stomach. The absolute vegetable purity of S. S. S. has always been one of the strongest points in its favor, and is one of the principal reasons for its being now the most widely known and universally used blood medicine on the market. It is made entirely of healing, purifying roots, herbs and barks of the forests and fields. These are selected for their well known curative properties, and are known at the same time to possess the qualities to build up and strengthen every part of the system by their fine tonic effect. Not only is S. S. S. the king of blood purifiers, but it is the one medicine that may be taken with absolute safety by young or old. We guarantee it non-injurious and offer a reward $1,000 for proof that it contains a particle of mineral in any form. S. S. S. is a safe and reliable treatment for Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, and any and all diseases arising from a poisoned or impure state of the blood. It goes to the very bottom of these troubles, removes every trace of disease, enriches and builds up the blood and permanently cures where mineral medicines fail. If you are suffering with any form of blood disease write for our book on The Blood and ask for any medical advice you may desire; no charge for either. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

THE BEAT OF THE PULSE.

It Varies Greatly in Different Persons and Conditions.

The pulse of women generally beats at a slightly faster rate than that of men. It may be said that when a person is at rest his pulse, that of any adult, may be from seventy-five to eighty times a minute. Great variation exists in different individuals in respect of the number of beats. After exercise the pulse quickens because of the stimulation of the heart, and the same result applies to the effects of taking food. A dose of alcohol will also stimulate the pulse somewhat, just as the use of tobacco, especially in excess, will tend to have an opposite effect—namely, that of lowering the rate of the pulse, because of the depression of the heart which results. In fevers and inflammatory diseases the pulse rate tends to be very much increased and also in respect of its character. Instead of beating quietly the blood vessel in such cases exhibits a very full and bounding movement. On the other hand, where depression exists and the temperature of the body falls, the pulse may be unnaturally slow and its character weak. Physicians are accustomed to distinguish other characteristics in the pulse, such as become valuable hints in the discovery and determination of disease. The practical lesson we learn here is that where the pulse continues for any length of time to have its beats quickened to an unnatural degree and where especially a rise of the temperature or heat of the body accompanies these symptoms we ought to suspect some kind of feverish condition or other to be represented. The pulse alone forms a valuable enough guide to this state of the body, but its value is very much increased if to the information given us by the pulse we add that which the use of the thermometer supplies.—Cardiff Times.

Common Colds Are the Cause of Many Serious Diseases.

Physicians who have gained a national reputation as analysts of the cause of various diseases, claim that if catching cold could be avoided a long list of dangerous ailments would never be heard of. Everyone knows that pneumonia and consumption originate from a cold, and chronic catarrh, bronchitis, and all throat and lung troubles are aggravated and rendered more serious by each fresh attack. Do not risk your life or take chances when you have a cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure it before these diseases develop. This remedy contains no opium, morphine or other hurtful drug and has thirty years of reputation back of it, gained by its cures under every condition. For sale by all druggists.

The Wild Buffalo.

Of huge bulk, great endurance and remarkable vitality, able to move quickly and turn sharply, and endowed with such vitality as enables it to charge its enemies even after receiving a mortal wound, the physical qualities alone of the buffalo would render it a most formidable opponent. But to its giant strength and bulk there must be added its innate hostility to the white man, its ferocity, its love for its young and in a fight a high order of cunning that will upset the best laid plans.—Hamilton Wright in Wide World Magazine.

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhœa), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in affecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of one class of diseases—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities incident to women only. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulæ of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

A Crime Against Society.

Voluntary self murder is not only a violation of the divine law, but is also a crime against society. We are social beings. We owe a duty to the commonwealth as well as to ourselves. We mutually depend on one another, like the members of our physical body. "For none of us liveth to himself; and no man dieth to himself." Human society may be compared to a grand army, every member of which has a special place and mission assigned to him by his sovereign commander. To abandon the post of duty intrusted to a sentinel is regarded by the military code as a most cowardly act, which is punished with extreme rigor. What less does the suicide do than basely abandon the situation assigned to him in the warfare of life? And there is no vice more contagious than cowardly desertion. It is often followed by a general mutiny. The same is true of suicide. When a few deeds of self murder are widely circulated by the press they are not infrequently followed by numerous voluntary slaughters. A suicidal wave rolls over the land.—Cardinal Gibbons in Century.

A Habit to Be Encouraged.

The mother who has acquired the habit of keeping on hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, saves herself a great amount of uneasiness and anxiety. Coughs, cold and croup, to which children are susceptible, are quickly cured by its use. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia, and if given as soon as the first symptoms of croup appear, it will prevent the attack. This remedy contains nothing injurious and mothers give it to little ones with a feeling of perfect security. Sold by all druggists.

A Stetson Story.

The late John Stetson, famous in his day as a theatrical manager, was having a yacht built, and a friend, meeting him on the street, asked him what he was going to name the boat. "I haven't decided yet," replied John, "but it will be some name commencing with S, probably either Psyche or Cinch."

Gas in the Stomach.

Belching and that sense of fullness so often experienced after eating is caused by the formation of gas. The stomach fails to perform its functions and the food ferments. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will correct the disorder. They aid digestion and strengthen and invigorate the stomach and bowels. For sale by all druggists.

His Time For Drinking.

In the days of river driving on the Kennebec river in Maine old Uncle Jim Gilbert was a well known character. He was hale and hearty and had an enormous appetite. The men used to come down the river with a drive of logs and get a meal at a tavern in Augusta. One morning, arriving late and with appetite sharpened, old Uncle Jim sat down with the first set of men and ate diligently during the time these men made a meal. A new set of men came and still Uncle Jim ate steadily. A third set came, and the tavern keeper, becoming alarmed, tried to hurry up the protracted meal by saying, "Better drink your coffee, uncle, and have another cup." "No," said the old man. "I never drink till I'm half through."—Boston Herald.

Lame Back.

This ailment is usually caused by rheumatism of the muscles and may be cured by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm two or three times a day and rubbing the parts vigorously at each application. If this does not afford relief, bind on a piece of flannel slightly dampened with Pain Balm, and quick relief is almost sure to follow. For sale by all druggists.

Man and Woman.

"Man, composed of clay, is silent and ponderous," preached Jean Raulin in the fifteenth century, "but woman gives evidence of her osseous origin by the rattle she keeps up. Move a sack of earth and it makes no noise; touch a bag of bones and you are deafened with the clitter clatter."—London Chronicle.

SOME PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

So far as the public is concerned the Board of Public Works by its inaction and indifference in the matter of carrying out the provisions of the ordinance approved the 5th day of September, 1905, providing for the issuance of bonds to the amount of one hundred and fifteen thousand dollars, and specifying, among other things, that the monies arising from the sale of fifty of these bonds should be used for the purpose of acquiring, owning, constructing and operating an electric light plant for the city, refuse to give the people any relief from the exorbitant and unconscionable price charged by a private and foreign corporation now enjoying a franchise from the city. Perhaps the board would not refuse to answer a few questions that we would like to propound, and in the answers to which each citizen of Gainesville is interested in some degree:

When was the sale of sixty-five bonds, aggregating sixty-five thousand dollars, made?

At the time and date of sale did the city receive for same the face value of the bonds plus the accrued interest?

Although the bonds have interest coupons attached, payable at the end of periods of six months from the date of the bond, did you, at the time of the sale, pay the interest on these bonds in advance?

If the interest was paid in advance was this done without objection or protest from any member?

What has been the average amount of money deposited to the credit of the city from the sale of these bonds?

Has the money so deposited from the sale of these bonds been drawing interest, and how much?

If the same is not drawing interest, state whether or not any motion or resolution was introduced or proposed by any member of the board for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not this money could be deposited at interest, and what became of this resolution or motion if any such was proposed or introduced?

Has the board ever had under consideration any resolution or motion that had for its purpose an investigation of the proposition to build or acquire an electric light plant for the city, and if not has any such resolution or motion ever been introduced or proposed?

The people of Gainesville are interested in the question whether or not the money arising from the sale of the sixty-five bonds is drawing interest or laying idle in bank. The above questions are specific and direct, and we respectfully ask that specific and direct answers be made to them.

The above questions are asked at the request of many of the largest tax-payers and best people of Gainesville, and are in no way prompted by ill-feeling for any member of the Board of Public Works, for we honor and esteem each of them, and realize that they are honestly endeavoring to perform without remuneration a thankless task.

A NEW LOBBY.

Our correspondent says Washington is watching with much interest the working out of a distinctly new idea in public affairs. This ist he People's Lobby—a non-partisan organization designed to foster a wider knowledge of national legislation, and to indorse or oppose such bills as affect the general welfare of the people.

The basic idea is that, if the people know the facts on legislative matters, public opinion will find such wide expression that it cannot be disregarded. Channels of publicity are not lacking. The People's Lobby has the support of a large number of leading newspapers and of such publications as "Success," "Collier's" and "Ridgway's."

An important branch of the work of the organization is the careful compiling of the public record of every Senator and Representative. The people have a right to know from an unprejudiced source what their legislators are doing. The influences brought to bear on members of Congress will also be examined into; this means a history of the "Third House"—the secret lobbyists, who are so successful in influencing legislation for the benefit of the "special interests" which employ them.

The plan seems broad enough and pratical enough to augur great public good if intelligently carried into effect. The personnel of the Governing Committee and of the men in charge of the bureau in Washington would seem to promise this result, and the willingness of the people to indorse the project and to support it with their subscriptions is attested by hundreds of communications received from every State in the Union and from Panama, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands. Enthusiastic letters are still being received daily, and the organization continues to make its appeal for subscriptions for any amount from $1.00 upward.

Henry Beach Needham, whose experience as a journalist in Washington led him to suggest the formation of the People's Lobby, is the secretary in charge of the Washington bureau, located in the Munsey Building.

STATE UNIVERSITY NOTES.

The Y. M. C. A. Convention recently held at the University of the State of Florida, at which all but one of the colleges of the State were represented, probably marks the beginning in our schools of a new period of Christian work and activity. The convention was in session from January 17 to January 20 inclusive, and in its three daily sessions accomplished more than is usually done at such assemblies. The twenty-five or more delegates, together with a number of students of the University, were present at every meeting, and under the able leadership of such men as C. S. Cooper of New York, J. V. Read and W. D. Weatherford, of Atlanta, and R. M. Harper of the University of North Carolina, learned much about the best methods of carrying on the work of the Student Y. M. C. A. In particular, much stress was laid upon the study of the English Bible. This was the dominant note, beginning with the opening address in which Dr. Sledd welcomed the delegates and speakers to Gainesville, and then spoke of the "Bible as Literature," and not ending until the last address, delivered Sunday night at the Presbyterian church by Mr. Cooper, of the Bible Study Department of the Student Y. M. C. A. Another feature of the convention to be noted was the "good fellowship" fostered among the students of the various institutions represented, and the emphasis laid upon the necessity of maintaining absolutely clean athletics.

The convention was the first of its kind ever held in the State, and now it is proposed to hold such a meeting annually. Because of the quiet but intense enthusiasm, because of the zeal for Christian work, and the determination of the students of the various colleges to conduct Bible study classes among themselves, because of those and of similar results brought about by the convention, the gathering of the students here has been of great moment to the students now in attendance at the various colleges, and it is to be earnestly hoped that this is but the beginning of an awakened interest among all the students of the State. In the University alone eight classes have been formed by the students for Bible study along the general lines of Mr. Cooper's department of the Student Y. M. C. A. in the United States.

ARMY UNIFORMS.

Officers Must Spend $1,000 to Start and Then Keep It Up.

How would you like to be forced to invest $1,000 for clothing whether you had the money or wanted to or not?

This is what an army officer holding a commission in Uncle Sam's service has to do much oftener than he likes. If he does not happen to have the ready cash (and many of them do not have it) he is forced by army regulations to buy enough clothes on credit to tog out fifteen men.

It is an army secret, but some of the lieutenants, fresh from West Point two years ago, have only recently finished paying for their first $1,000 worth of clothes. Their salvation is that their credit is good with the tailors who cater to the army officers' trade. All the uniforms are tailor made. It is nothing out of the ordinary for an army officer to be paying for his clothes on the installment plan. That is one part of the army officer's life that will probably not appear romantic—especially to the women.

But the rigid requirements make it necessary for the officer to spend a large sum of money for his clothes or suffer a penalty for not having them.

The pay of a second lieutenant is $1,040 a year. One of the first things he has to do on receiving his commission is to fit himself with clothes to meet the required regulations. In the first place, he has to have service uniforms of olive drab and khaki for summer and winter wear. There must be one kind of service while mounted and another kind while dismounted.

It requires not less than four khaki uniforms of wash goods for field service. There are trousers for use while dismounted and the riding breeches. With the service uniform go the boots, shoes, pigskin leggings, cap, service hat, saddle blanket to match uniform, leather equipment and a few other things. Then there are dress uniforms for dismounted service, with black boots and black shoes, cap, cape, overcoat, hat and helmet.

There must be two sets for summer and two sets for winter of all the different uniforms. Then come the official dress uniforms for mounted and dismounted service. With the official dress go gold shoulder knots and a belt of gold costing about $50, cap, hat, patent leather shoes and boots. Next are the white shoes and cap. Then comes the social full dress uniform for evening wear, with hat, patent leather boots and shoes, purely for social affairs.

These are not all. There must be a mess jacket, raincoat of a certain color and flannel shirts. The officers have to furnish their own horses, saddles and blankets. They have to pay their own board and for fuel and lights. They even have to buy the furnishings for their quarters. Uncle Sam only furnishes the shelter and the commission. Even the officers' trunks have to be of a regulation size. All these things mean an investment of about $2,000 at least to begin with. This is more than the first year's salary, and expenses never stop.—Columbus Dispatch.

The Ghost of Trichinopoly.

The ghost of Trichinopoly may be seen on most nights between the hours of 11 and 2 on the Tennur road. She is a most beautiful creature who walks out of the river with her clothes all wet, water dripping from her long silken tresses, and she carries in her right hand—no, not a piece of soap or an antiquated toothbrush—merely a brass lotah. If any person attempts to approach her she merely points the forefinger of her left hand at him, and he dies! The ghost was originally one of the temple dancing girls famous all over the town for her striking beauty. The temple authorities raised objections to her bathing there and ordered her to creep out quietly at 11 every night and bathe in the river at Tennur, where no one would see her. This she did for some time, but another temple girl gave away the secret, with the result that the next night when bathing she heard the tramp of many feet and on rushing out to see what was the matter was accidentally knocked into the river and drowned by the crowd of men rushing to the riverside to see her.—Madras (India) Mail.

A Famous Tenor.

Apart from its wide range, the natural beauty and sweetness of the voice of Sims Reeves held his audiences spellbound and fully entitled him to be termed the finest English tenor of his day. He especially excelled in oratorio parts, while in opera his success was scarcely less pronounced. Perhaps it was as a singer of English ballads that Sims Reeves appealed to the majority, and it will probably be many a long day before we shall hear a more exquisite rendering of "Sally In Our Alley" than that of which this great tenor was capable.—London Mail.

UNPROFITABLE FEEDING

Intelligent stock raisers know that a certain amount of feed is necessary to keep an animal alive. They might feed that amount as long as it lives, and it would never gain a pound.

There is no profit in that kind of feeding. The kind that pays is the kind that builds flesh rapidly. If it takes twenty pounds of food each day to keep a sheep alive, twenty-five pounds a day will make it gain flesh. It's the extra five that brings the profit. The first five pounds amounts to nothing, nor does the second or third or fourth five pounds.

It's the same way with advertising. You have to do a certain amount to overcome the resistance of the public.

You have to do a certain amount of advertising to make them wake up to the fact that you are in business at all. You have to pay a certain amount to keep your advertising alive. What you pay above that amount brings profit.

Some advertisers fail because they do not use enough space. They use barely enough or sometimes not quite enough to make the advertising self sustaining. A little bit more would make it profitable. It is better to advertise a little too much than not quite enough.—Charles Austin Bates.

Some of our advertisers could enlarge their space with profit.

NAMES OF DAYS.

The Latin and Saxon Terms From Which They Are Derived.

Our names for each day are derived from the Saxons, who probably borrowed the week from some eastern people, substituting names of their own divinities for those of the classical gods, as is easily seen when the names are tabulated:

Latin.	Saxon.	English.
Dies Solis.....	Sun's day.....	Sunday.
Dies Lunae.....	Moon's day.....	Monday.
Dies Martis.....	Tiw's day.....	Tuesday.
Dies Mercurii..	Woden's day..	Wednesday.
Dies Jovis.....	Thor's day....	Thursday.
Dies Veneris...	Friga's day...	Friday.
Dies Saturni....	Seterne's day.	Saturday.

Among the ancients the belief in the influence of the planets upon the life of men was so strong that many in selecting their daily ornaments would wear only the gem associated with the planet of the day. Thus on Sunday only yellow gems and gold should adorn the fingers. Pearls and white stones, excepting diamonds, belonged to the Moon day. Tuesday, day of Mars, claimed rubies and all stones of fiery luster. Thursday, Thor's day, demanded amethysts and deep colored stones of sanguine tint, while Friday, dominated by Venus, reigned over the emerald, color of jealousy, which is love's shadow. Saturday, dedicated to Saturn, oldest of the gods, had for its distinctive talisman the most splendid of all gems, the diamond.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate gland. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rock Port, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old." J. W. McCollum & Co.

A Mother's Argument.

"The most to be regretted act of my life," says a commander of the navy, "was a letter I wrote to my mother when about seventeen years of age. She always addressed her letters to me as 'my dear boy.' I felt at that time I was a man, or very near it, and wrote saying that her constant addressing me as a 'boy' made me feel displeased. I received in reply a letter full of reproaches and tears. Among other things, she said: 'You might grow to be as big as Goliath, as strong as Samson and as wise as Solomon; you might become ruler of a nation or emperor of many nations, and the world might revere you and fear you, but to your devoted mother you would always appear in memory in your innocent, unpretentious, unself conceited, unpampered babyhood. In those days when I washed and dressed and kissed and worshiped you, you were my idol. Nowadays you are becoming part of a gross world by contact with it, and I cannot bow down to you and worship you, but if there are manhood and maternal love transmitted to you, you will understand that the highest compliment that mother love can pay you is to call you "my dear boy."'"

Monster Spider Crabs.

"I have collected specimens of crabs in all parts of the world," said a naturalist, "but I shall never forget the pleasure I experienced in securing a monstrous specimen of the Japanese spider crab, the largest ever found. The combined length of the feeling arms of this monster was more than twelve feet, while the body portion was about twenty inches across. When alive, it weighed about seventy-five pounds. One of the oddest things about these creatures is their ability to assume a disguise. This feat they are able to perform owing to the flexibility of their pinchers and to the hooked hairs and spines with which their numerous arms are studded. By means of their pinchers they tear off small fragments of sponges and seaweeds. After first putting these to their months, which contain a glutinous saliva, they place them on the surface of their limbs and bodies by sticking them fast with a rubbing movement. By this method the crab succeeds in completely changing its appearance and rendering itself indistinguishable from the materials common to the bottom of the sea. While crawling along it seems as though a portion of the ocean bed was in motion, so close is the resemblance."

Forests of Stone.

Stone forests are found in various parts of the world. In many cases they are hardened by some peculiarity of the atmosphere and are found standing just as they were when clothed with green foliage thousands of years ago. The Little Colorado river, in Arizona, has long been famous as a locality for such finds. At one place more than 1,500 cords of solid stone, tree trunks, sections, limbs and logs, were found by the government surveyors. Most of them were silicified, many seven to ten feet in diameter and from twenty to eighty feet in height. Geologists say that the petrified trees of the Little Colorado were once covered with marl over 1,000 feet in depth. Some of the trees have been changed to jasper and have assumed various hues; others resemble opal, and when broken open the core is often found lined with crystals of the most beautiful tints.

Neighbors Got Fooled.

"I was literally coughing myself to death, and had become too weak to leave my bed, and neighbors predicted that I would never leave it alone; but they got fooled, for thanks be to God, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It took just four one-dollar bottles to completely cure the cough and restore me to good sound health," writes Mrs. Eva Uncapher of Grovertown, Stark Co., Ind. This King of cough and cold cures, and healer of throat and lungs, is guaranteed at all druggists'. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Profligate Spendthrifts.

The wealth of many of the ancient Romans was reckoned far into the millions. Mark Antony during his somewhat checkered career squandered no less than $735,000,000, and Tiberius left at his death over eighteen millions, which Caligula spent in less than a year. Records show that this spendthrift paid $150,000 for one supper. Horace tells us that Pegellus, a singer, could in five days spend $40,000, and Clodius on a small wager swallowed a pearl worth nearly $40,000. The estate of Crassus was valued at $8,400,000. Lucullus dined at the rate of $8,000 a meal for several weeks. Lentulus was worth not less than sixteen millions, and Apicius squandered nearly five millions of dollars in a few weeks.

Don't Put Off

Until tomorrow what you can do today. If you are suffering from a torpid liver, or constipation, don't wait until tomorrow to get help. Buy a bottle of Herbine and get that liver working right. Promptness about health saves many sick spells. Mrs. Ida Gresham, Point, Texas, writes: "I used Herbine in my family for six years, and find it does all it claims to do." Sold by W. M. Johnson.

Must Be Good.

Plaisantin offered in payment of a bill a gold piece which had a suspicious ring. "Here, you've given me one of those false coins that the counterfeiters have just been arrested for making," said the merchant. "Impossible," answered Plaisantin. "It is dated 1863. If it were false, surely it would have been found out before this."—Gaulois.

Chew What You Know About and Know What You Are Chewing

There is real pleasure in chewing the best tobacco grown—where the best tobacco grows—in the famous Piedmont Country.

Only choice selections of this well-matured and thoroughly cured tobacco is used in making SCHNAPPS. That's why SCHNAPPS and others of the Reynold's brands, as shown by the Internal Revenue statistics for a fiscal year, made the wonderful growth of six and one-quarter million pounds, or a net gain of one-third of the entire increased consumption of chewing and smoking tobaccos in the United States.

Evidently, chewers cannot resist the flavor and they cheer SCHNAPPS because SCHNAPPS cheers them more than any other chewing tobacco, and every man that chews SCHNAPPS passes the good thing along—one chewer makes other chewers—until the fact is now established that there are many more chewers and pounds of tobacco chewed, to the population, in those States where SCHNAPPS tobacco was first sold than there are in the States where SCHNAPPS has not yet been offered to the trade.

SCHNAPPS is like a cup of fine Java coffee, sweetened just enough to bring out its natural, stimulating qualities. SCHNAPPS pleases all classes of chewers: the rich, because they do not find a chew that really pleases them better at any price; the poor, because it is more economical than the large 10c. or 15c. plugs and they get their money's worth of the real snappy, stimulating flavor so appreciated by tobacco lovers. All imitations contain much more sweetening than SCHNAPPS. They are made that way to hide poor tobacco improperly cured.

For the man who chews tobacco for tobacco's sake, there is no chew like SCHNAPPS.

Sold at 50c. per pound in 5c. Cuts. Strictly 10c. and 15c. Plugs

He Wins the Palm.

Many stories have been told of mean men, such as he who used a wart for a collar button and he whose birthday gift to his son consisted in washing the windows so that the lad might watch the cars go by. This man, however, seems to have won the palm. There was an extremely mean man in New Hampshire who was the proprietor of a hotel. By his direction rules were posted in the hostelry forbidding almost every conceivable privilege to those not guests of the place. There was absolutely no chance for the casual loafer to get newspapers, pens, ink, stationery, etc. There were not even free seats in the office. One day he chanced to observe a chronic loafer gazing at the old clock that hung on the wall. The next day a sign was placed over the clock. It read, "This clock is for the use of the guests of the hotel only."—Success Magazine.

"I've lived in California 20 years, and am still hunting for trouble in the way of burns, sores, wounds, boils, cuts, sprains, or a case of piles that Bucklen's Arnica Salve won't quickly cure," writes Charles Walters of Alleghany, Sierra Co. No use hunting, Mr. Walters; it cures every case. Guaranteed at all drug stores. 25c.
